MOURNE AND TRIBUTARIES.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

At length salmon fishing has started on the Mourne, the rain of the last few days having put it into order and brought up the salmon which were lying for weeks in the tideway. Since last notes Colonel Maclean Rilled five salmon, Constable Stafford five, Mr. S. Ashenburst three. Mr. M. Wolgan five, Mr. W. J. Gellscher three, Mr. M. W. Colland five, Mr. W. J. Gellscher three, Mr. M. W. Chillagh flour, and Mr. J. M. Ahulls four, ranging from 4bs. to 9bs. The tributaries are in pretty good order, and salmon are up these inspended for over a fishing, who may be the magnetic firm of the control of WATERVILLE.

They have relased, it is satisfactory to see, the particular mails which they wrongfully esized at the end refrain from the repetition of this illegitimate and arbitrary procedure. Although business was rather quiet yesterday, as The Times, Stock markets maintained a drm tone generally. Interest continues to be absorbed mainly by the speculative markets, in which there were again several interesting movements. Lobitos advanced sharply on a revival of rumours relating to a change of control, and British-American Tobacce rose on an increase in the interim dividend. LORD FRENCH AND Viscount French concluded his official visit to Scotland yesterday, when he visited the West defences, and in the evening inspected in Edinburgh the National Reserve and Volunteers. At the close of the inspection, Viscount French delivered an address, in which, after speaking of the splendid military spirit everywhere displayed in Scotland, he remarked that all kinds of odd rumours and curious things which were not true had got about in this war. He supposed it was the case in every great war, but he had never heard a more ridiculous rumour prevail than that which said that the Government did not want Volunteers, and did not appreciate their value and use. He could assure them there was not an atom of truth in that. The King had espressed his appreciation of their services, and the Government and the War Office authorities valued them immensely. They would very shortly know exactly how they stood as a body. Coming down to details he could tell them nothing certain, but all those details would come out very shortly.

Referring to the country's uppreparedness for war on an immense scale, Lord French said he thanked God they had now turned the corner, and things were very much better. They had much more of everything they needed, and the quantities were increasing daily.

On the Caucasus front our troops, closely following up the enemy in the region of Lake Van, entered the town of Mush, taking prisoners.

According to fuller reports which have arrived of the battle, in the region of Royat we surrounded portions of the 4th Turkish Division, capturing the 11th Turkish Regiment, and nearly all the remnant of the 12th Turkish Regiment, together with two staff officers, several senior officers, and 650 men. In this battle we also captured three guns and three machine guns. machine guns.

MOUNTAIN POSITIONS CAPTURED.

Yesterday's Italian communiqué:— Small offensive operations by our troop gave us possession of some new position in the rough mountainous area of the Fossa Alps. At the head of Fossernica Valley we occupied Point 2354, south of under our curtain fire, and was unable to leave the German trenches.

In Champagne several enemy surprise statacks on our small posts in the region of Trahure were easily repelled.

On the right bank of the Meuse the enemy bomberded the positions which we captured yesterday between Fleury and Thiaumont Work.

The number of prisoners taken by us in the course of this attack exceeds 250, including five officers.

There was rather brisk artillery fighting in the region of Chenois.

Aviation.—On the Somme front, on August 22, one of our pilots, attacked by three enemy machines, succeeded in getting rid of his adversaries and bringing down one which crashed to earth near Achies, in the region of Hem.

During yesterday an Albatross was brought down by one of our pilots towards Eparges, north-east of Lens.

Two other German machines, as a result of combats, dived suddenly into their own lines, once in Champagne and the other in the Vosges, north-east of Lens.
